

Character:

the mental and moral qualities distinctive to an individual or group.

Character is defined in how your habits, motives, thoughts, and so on relate to morality, particularly as it concerns integrity.

Character is the way people react to situations. Your reaction to things whether it be by actions, words, or thoughts. Character truly defines who you are.

Your character defines who you are by the actions you take. Catherine Pulsifer

Primary greatness is on the inside. It's about character. Stephen Covey

Our character is a composite of people we have watched, experiences we have had, but completely relies on the decisions that we make. Scott Schwab

Character is not something that you buy; it is not a commodity that can be bartered for; it is not a quality suited for only the rich and famous; rather, character is built upon the foundational commitment of love, honesty, and compassion for others. Byron R. Pulsifer

Character cannot be developed in ease and quiet. Only through experience of trial and suffering can the soul be strengthened, ambition inspired, and success achieved. Helen Keller

How we behave toward and around our children has much more influence on their character than if we only tell them about how they should or should not behave. Russell Kolts

Any fool can criticize, condemn and complain - and most fools do. But it takes character and self-control to be understanding and forgiving. Dale Carnegie, How to Win Friends and Influence People

You are your most important critic and your conscience your most important judge of character. Denis Waitley

Do you want to see someone of good character? Show me the man or woman who does the next right thing when no one is looking, even when it does not benefit them.

In the end, it is the person you become, not the things you achieve, that is most important. Les Brown

Stand for something – lead with your soul – What you have to give, you offer least of all through what you say, in greater part in what you do, but in greatest part through who you are. Competence matters, Character matters more. Character is what happens when life scratches itself onto your soul. The Go-Giver Leader- Bob Burg
